

Visit Bristol's Local Nature Reserves

Special places to visit and enjoy wildlife

BRISTOL
2015 EUROPEAN
GREEN CAPITAL

Go today!

Get close to nature, enjoy some green space and take a breather at one of Bristol's Local Nature Reserves (LNRs). Each one is a special place for wildlife to thrive and where you can take a stroll and watch nature flourish.

There are 12 LNRs in Bristol. A further four are pledged to follow as part of Bristol Green Capital 2015. They are all open everyday and free to visit.

LNRs are statutory sites protected by law. They were chosen by Bristol City Council with the help of local community organisations and the support of Natural England. Three of the 12 sites are managed in partnership with Avon Wildlife Trust.

Bristol is fortunate to have these special reserves – they have so much to offer. This leaflet has been prepared to show you where they are, give you a taste of what's there and suggest when it's a good time to wander with wildlife. Look out for walks, events and activities for all interests throughout the year.

Lift your spirits in spring

- Look out for swollen buds and emerging leaves on trees
- See wildflowers start to appear amid newly growing grasses
- Smell the wafts and scents carried by warmer winds
- Enjoy the dawn chorus, longer days and the birds singing at sunset.

Stroll into summer

- Meander through meadows and cool down near the river
- Listen out for the swishing of tall grasses and trees in the breeze
- See vibrant colours and a wide variety of wildlife
- Look out for butterflies and insects visiting wildflowers.

Amble in autumn

- Crunch and kick up the rich red, golden yellow and vibrant orange fallen leaves
- Marvel at the fairytale fungi and easy-to-overlook lichen
- See how summer flowers have turned into ripe fruits and berries
- Find new patterns and textures left by died-back vegetation.

Wander in winter

- Get close to sparkling white hoar frost transforming places into a winter wonderland
- See how every tree species has a unique bark pattern and texture
- Discover the sculptural beauty of plants and trees that are usually hidden by leaves
- Relax and experience the views free of summer's abundant growth.
