INFANT CLASS SIZE - Government legislation means that infant classes (Reception, Year 1 and Year 2) with one teacher cannot contain more than 30 pupils. When considering an appeal for a place in an infant class the independent appeal panel's task is to review the decision already made. It does not have the flexibility to say that the appellant's personal circumstances mean that they should have a place at the school if this would take the number of children in the school class over 30. This makes an infant class size appeal different to other school admission appeals.

At Infant Class Size Appeals the independent appeal panel can only look at:

- Whether the admission arrangements were lawful
- Whether the admission arrangements were incorrectly applied and your child should have been offered a place.
- Whether it was unreasonable/perverse (in law) to refuse your preference. The appeal panel would need to be satisfied that the decision was so completely absurd / outrageous that no reasonable person, with the same facts, would have made that decision.

Given the extremely limited grounds on which an appeal may be upheld, Infant Class Size Appeals are very rarely successful. Most applicants who have been refused a place at their preferred school consider the refusal to be perverse but as mentioned above the word has a stronger meaning in its legal sense.

Parents/carers can find it frustrating when they realise how very limited the powers of the Appeal Panel are when considering Infant Class Size appeals. We are therefore drawing this to your attention now, so you can make an informed decision about whether you wish to appeal or not. The purpose of this information is to explain clearly the role of the Appeal Panel and not in any way discourage you from appealing, which is of course, your legal right if you feel you have grounds to do so.

'Living and Learning through Christ'

Second Round Allocation Statement for St Bernadette Catholic Primary School – September 2015

On 22 May 2015, 13 applications were received from the LA to be considered for a Second Round Allocation. As St Bernadette Primary School remains fully subscribed, no further places were available and no further places were offered.

Infant Class Size Appeals

Statutory limits on class sizes mean that infant classes with a single qualified teacher cannot contain more than 30 pupils without taking 'qualifying measures' to comply with the statutory duty to limit infant classes with a single teacher to a maximum of 30. Qualifying measures include those such as

- employing an additional teacher
- building an extra classroom
- re-organisation of classes

The infant classes at St Bernadette Catholic Primary School are organised with a maximum of 30 in each year group, so appeals for the infant classes will be heard on the basis of 'class size prejudice'.

The Independent Appeals Panel is restricted to three circumstances in which they can uphold your case. These are if the panel is satisfied:

- (a) that your child would have been offered a place if the admission arrangements had been properly implemented.
- (b) the child would have been offered a place if the arrangements had not been contrary to mandatory provisions in the School Admissions Code and the School Standards and Framework Act 1998
- (c) that the decision was not one which a *reasonable admission authority would make in the circumstances of the case.

'Reasonable' is defined as

"In order for a panel to determine that an admission authority's decision to refuse admission was unreasonable, it will need to be satisfied that the decision to refuse to admit that particular child was 'perverse in the light of the admission arrangements', i.e. it was 'beyond the range of responses open to a reasonable decision maker' or 'a decision which is so outrageous in its defiance of logic or of accepted moral standards that no sensible person who had applied his mind to the question could have arrived at it'.
